Translating the CGCRT National Strategy into Local Action

Workshop led by James Boxall
(Co-Chair CGCRT)

10:00 to 12:00

The Canadian Geomatics Community Round Table (CGCRT) is a collaboration between governments, the private sector, educators and students, professional associations and non-governmental organizations (NGOs). Their key goal is to examine common issues facing the Geomatics Sector and to develop a Pan-Canadian Geomatics Strategy to re-position the Sector for future success. The draft strategy is organized into seven Dimensions. GANS has resources around the strategy available through their website. We ask that you choose two Dimensions that are of the greatest interest to you and come on June 3rd prepared to discuss these topics. GANS Board members will be compiling notes on our discussions to present in Ottawa on June 9-10th at the CGCRT Geomatics Strategy, Action, and Implementation Planning Workshop.
